From the COP26 Presidency's Climate and Development Ministerial to the Climate Vulnerable Forum to the G7 Summit, global calls to support locally led adaptation are growing.

These six peer-to-peer regional dialogues across Africa, the Asia-Pacific region, and the Caribbean and Latin America will bring together government representatives as well as civil society, private sector, and other non-state actors. The dialogues will facilitate partnerships and help identify financial support for state and non-state locally led adaptation delivery mechanisms or initiatives.

Hosted by a partnership of organizations, in association with the Adaptation Action Coalition, UN High-level Champions, and Race to Resilience, these regional dialogues are an opportunity for countries and non-state actors to learn from each other and showcase the real potential for locally led adaptation through innovative funding and governance models.
